

COMMUNITY OF LEADERS

THE ESSENCE OF LEADERSHIP, LEVEL III

In November of 2008, Contegrity will offer the third level of our Essence of Leadership Series, Community of Leaders. If you are interested in what calls people together to lead worthwhile accomplishments, this program is for you.

Often, leading is seen as one person, "the leader", getting other people to buy into "the leader's" vision and take on to fulfill it. This personalized vision is easy to abandon when the going gets tough or when it no longer seems relevant or beneficial to the followers. Contrast this to the direction taken on by a community of leaders which is arrived at by considering what is up and relevant now, what is worth accomplishing, and what can be heard as in service to all. A community of leaders operates from being aligned and on board.

Here is some of what we will address in this program:

Seeing beyond the usual view of leader as "the one who knows"

Giving up "going along" in favor of real alignment

Considering what there is to lead that calls for a community of leaders; what accomplishment can be heard by all?

Making room for everyone involved to lead

Shifting from honoring people and their views to honoring what we are up to together

Appreciating the power of "our" connection as greater than personal and individual power

Contegrity has been developing leaders for the last 16 years. In Essence of Leadership I, hundreds of people have identified and freed their unique power to lead. In Essence of Leadership II, people have gained access to what it takes to alter and lead organizational cultures. Now, we will take on the next leadership frontier by providing a powerful insight and pathway for building a community of leaders.

Developing the next generation of leaders in organizations in every sector is often cited as their greatest challenge. Building a community of leaders is an unconventional but sound way to address this challenge. We invite you to participate with us in November and develop your ability to call up and develop leadership around you.

Please join us. We promise that your attendance will free your power to lead; and free the power of the people around you to lead as well.
